

DUO3.0 SECTION12-15

137. We cannot turn our backs on desperate people who are at risk.
138. The parliament decided to provide developing countries with financial aid.
139. Some say the British monarchy should be abolished. What do you think?
140. They sought shelter from the attack but found no place to hide.
141. There's little prospect that the two countries will make significant progress in disarmament.
142. The negotiations are under way. Before long, they will enter a crucial phase.
143. The slave were anxious to alter their destinies.
144. The aristocrats abused their privileges to their hearts' content.
145. The revolution in itself, bore no fruit, after all.
146. Bob cut in on our conversation, saying, "I'm against it !"
147. We skipped his turn on purpose.
148. He saw someone being bullied, but he turned a blind eye.
149. When Nick and I cheated on an exam, I was suspended from school. As for Nick, he got away with it.
150. They are hostile to Richard because they are jealous of his wealth and status.
151. I hate him ! He behaves as if he were somebody.
152. In spite of our compliments, he frowned and turned away. He was so rude !
153. He claimed that the enormous property was at his disposal.

154. The more stubborn you are, the more isolated you become.
155. “Don’t beat around the bush ! What am I supposed to do?” “Just wait and see. Time will tell.”
156. Please hand in your assignment via e-mail no later than 5:00 PM on June 10.
157. Joe is anything but diligent. That’s why he flunked math again.
158. His thesis doesn’t make sense. To begin with, its theme is obscure.
159. His essay was concise and to the point.
160. “How are you going to deal with this complicated problem?” “Leave it to me ! It’s a piece of cake.”
161. “Nick, I want you to look this over before I turn it in.” “Sorry, but I have my hands full right now.”
162. “What if I don’t meet the deadline?” “I bet he’ll get mad at you ! ”
163. Your summary leaves nothing to be desired apart from the terrible handwriting.
164. You ought to think over whether the premise is valid or not.
165. Above all, scientific terms call for precise definitions.
166. First of all, learn the formula by heart.
167. To calculate the volume, multiply the length by the width by the depth.
168. Tiny cracks were found in the bottom of the barrel.
169. This chapter will focus on the concepts of geometry.
170. Phil is much more interested in academic subjects than in practical skills.

171. "Something 's gone wrong with this microscope. I need to have it repaired." "Let me see it. Maybe I can fix it."

172. "What is 'an instrument'?" "For instance, a gauge, such as a thermometer or a barometer."

173. The minute particles are barely visible to the naked eye.

174. Muscle tissue consists of a vast number of cells.

175. This substance is mostly composed of hydrogen and oxygen.

176. The exact temperature is 22.68 degrees Celsius.